While the avowed approach of integration with the complex global economy has brought about a fundamental change in the raw material scenario for country's Textile Industry on account of a wellnigh permanent reversal of price parity between Cotton and Synthetic fibres, domestic cotton production during the season 1997-98 has nosedived; thanks mainly to chronic problems of inavailability of genuine seed quality, required backup for plant protection and the emerging peculiar trend in the usually erratic weather conditions, with which cotton cultivation in the country continues to remain plagued.

On the other hand, the spell of recession in the industry has taken a turn for worse towards beginning of the year 1998. Of greater concern however, is the apprehended compounding of the problem on account of impending further contraction of demand due to a quantum shift in consumer preference in domestic middle class from cottons to synthetics.

Woes of the marginalised Mill sector, being continuously fueled by unjust and irrational structure of excise duties and a large scale evasion thereof by the now mighty segment of the industry called small scale or independent sector, are only forcing the former to a virtual elimination. Clearly, the prospects in the current year are far from encouraging.

The plan of capital outlay for Equipment Modernisation cum Expansion with orientation for product quality upgradation, is in the process of steady but cautious implementation in the given overall circumstances for the time being.

Energy Conservation

Company's dependence on own generation of power to a large extent is being continued. Further efforts for conservation of energy in respect of operations of its humidification plants and certain other areas in the normal course of working are being made, which are expected to result in saving from the current year onwards.

Information in accordance with the provisions of Section 217 (1) (e) of the Companies Act, 1956 read with the Companies (Disclosure of Particulars in the Report of Board of Directors)

Maharaja Shree UMAID MILLS LIMITED

Rules, 1988 are given in the Annexure hereto which forms part of this Report.
