MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS STATEMENT:

The Indian financial markets remained largely orderly during 2007-08, barring the equity market which witnessed bouts of volatility, especially beginning the second week of January 2008 in tandem with trends in major international equity markets. Over the year, however, the equity market registered gains. Volatility was due to volatility in international financial markets as uncertainties about the US sub-prime mortgage market exposures persisted and spilled over to markets for other assets.

GDP growth rate was placed at 8.7 per cent in 2007-08 as compared with 9.6 per cent in 2006-07, reflecting moderation in growth in all the three sectors, viz., agriculture and allied activities, industry and services.

In the foreign exchange market, the Indian rupee generally exhibited two-way movements against major currencies.

FDI equity inflow during the financial year 2007-08 at nearly US $ 25.5 billion (US $ 15.7 billion) as compared to the inflow (US$ 19.6 billion) received during the previous year. The FDI inflow during the month of February was the highest ever during any month since 1991. India has emerged as the second most attractive location after China, ahead of the US and Russia, for global FDI in 2007. A large portion of the FDI flow was into skill intensive and high value-added service industries, particularly financial services and information technology. India, in fact, dominates the global service industry in terms of attracting FDI with its unbeatable mix of low costs, deep technical and language skills, mature vendors and supportive government policies.

Global investors have also shown increasing interest in other sectors as well. Particular amongst them have been telecommunication, energy, construction, automobiles, electrical equipment among others. For example, all the five leading global telecom companies have made significant investment in India. Similarly, leading automobile companies have set up their manufacturing base in India.

GLOBAL DEVELOPMENTS:

The world economy grew strongly in the first half of 2007 and momentum appears to have remained solid in the September quarter in most economies. Global financial markets experienced significant turbulence in August and September as the fallout from the deteriorating conditions in the US housing sector led to a general re-pricing of risk across a range of assets. The Fed poured billions of dollars into the US banking system to slow down the hemorrhage from the sub-prime mortgage blowout, whose effects have now spread to the commercial market. Other Central Banking

Annual Report March 2008

Systems around the Globe, including the European Central Bank and the Central Banks of Japan and Australia, performed similar injections of emergency liquidity. Despite this the Global commodity prices firmed up during 2007-08 led by sharp increases in food and crude oil prices. Metal prices, which had witnessed some moderation during June-December 2007, rose again during January-March 2008. Agricultural raw materials prices, however, remained largely range bound during 2007-08.

According to the World Economic Outlook (WEO) of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the forecast for global real GDP growth, on a purchasing power parity basis, is expected to slow from 4.9 per cent in 2007 to 3.7 per cent in 2008.

Continuing strong demand and dwindling stocks are reflected in a tight supply-demand food situation globally, leading to the emergence of food price inflation as a key risk to global stability.

The outlook for the global financial system is overcast by the rising incidence of losses and write-offs in banking systems in the US and Europe amidst dislocations in the securitised credit market. There are also growing uncertainties surrounding the viability of financial guarantors and doubts about their business models as well as the approach of rating agencies with potential systemic implications.

In the overall assessment, there have been significant shifts in both global and domestic developments in relation to initial assessments. The dangers of global recession have increased at the current juncture although consensus expectations do not rule out a soft landing. On the domestic front, the outlook remained positive up to January 2008. Since then, the prospects for growth in the year ahead have been trimmed as risks to inflation and inflation expectations from the upside pressures due to international food, crude and metal prices have become more potent and real than before.

INDUSTRY STRUCTURE AND DEVELOPMENT:

In the last decade, the Indian brokerage industry has undergone a dramatic transformation. From being made of close groups, the broking industry today is one of the most transparent and compliance oriented businesses. Long settlement cycles and large scale bad deliveries are a thing of the past with the advent of T+2 settlement cycle and dematerialisation. Large and fixed commissions have been replaced by wafer thin margins, with competition driving down the brokerage fee, in some cases, to a few basis points.

There have also been major changes in the way business is conducted. Technology has emerged as the key driver of business and investment advice has become research based. At the same time, adherence to regulation and compliance has vastly increased. The scope of services have enhanced from being equity products to a wide range of financial services. Investor protection has assumed significance, and so has providing them with education and awareness.

The Indian Capital Market attained further depth and width during 2007. On a point to point basis, Sensex and Nifty indices rose by 47.1 and 54.8 per cent respectively during 2007. The BSE Sensex has recorded unprecedented high levels, from 14383 in April 2007 to 21206 in January 2008. The valuation of Indian stocks as reflected in P/E multiples of around 27 times end December 2007 was the highest amongst the select emerging market economies such as South Korea (15.04), Thailand (19.92), Malaysia (16.07), Indonesia (18.43) and Taiwan (20.14).

However the historical crash of the capital markets on 21st and 22nd January has witnessed the Sensex losing over 4000 points resulting in huge losses all over. Though the Sensex has bounced back in a small way, to close at 15644 for the F Y 2007-08 the severely dwindled volumes are yet to recover.

Policy and Regulatory changes for the capital markets introduced during the year include, amendments to Disclosure and Investor Protection Guidelines; appointment of a sub-committee on Disclosures and Accounting for integrating initial and continuous disclosures of companies; stipulation that Permanent Account No. would be the sole identification number for all participants in the security markets; successful completion of demutualization process by 16 stock exchanges; SEBI permitting short selling by Institutional investors and waiver of entry load by mutual funds for investors making applications for investment in mutual fund schemes directly.

Apollo Sindhoori Capital Investments Limited

The growth curve of Indian economy provides a strong foundation for sustainable growth across our business segments. We can substantially expand our business by cross selling our various products to our customers and offer wealth management solutions.

REVIEW OF OPERATIONS:

The Company added 237 offices during the year under consideration and the client base stands at over 159000 recording an impressive growth of 49% from around 107,000 of previous financial year. The number of offices has correspondingly gone up from 561 to 798 during the same period with the number of own branches growing from 168 to 197.

OPPORTUNITIES AND THREAT:

The industry offers immense opportunities for participants. With the economy having recorded healthy growth and more individuals reportedly accumulating wealth, the overall scenario has been reasonably encouraging.

With more money available for investments companies with multiple investment channels garner better advantage over competition. Apollo Sindhoori has made rapid strides in this direction by launching Portfolio Management Services and strengthening its distribution channels for Mutual Funds and Insurance, in addition to the spectrum of services/products on offer.

The major threat in the industry is competition. Notwithstanding the severe competition more and more corporate and Multi-National players are entering the markets. In addition to this many FII's are also entering the fray, overutilising the limited space. Some of the institutions come with strong financial muscle, which strains the top and bottom lines of the existing organizations.

RISK AND CONCERNS:

Economic slowdown, serious concerns on inflation and its consequences, political uncertainty and a further rise in interest rates remain key concerns. American sub-prime is a major factor that has excessive influence on the markets. We would also be affected if the stock markets were to decline sharply, as performance of the stock markets contribute substantially to the growth of your company and its earnings.

The Capital market industry, in which your company is operating, is subject to extensive and stringent regulations. However, your company has a proper and adequate internal control mechanism designed to ensure regulatory compliance.

Changes in technology may render company's current technology obsolete and may require a substantial capital investment. The company evaluates technological obsolescence on an on going basis and makes investment accordingly.

SEGMENT-WISE OR PRODUCT-WISE PERFORMANCE OUTLOOK:

Apollo Sindhoori Commodities Trading Limited (ASCTL) had introduced 'Systematic Gold Savings Scheme' for purchase of gold by investors through Commodity Exchanges during last year. The scheme, which was initially launched in Tamil Nadu has received a positive response from the clients. In view of this success, the scheme was launched all over India.

The scheme enables investors to derive the benefits of buying 100 grams of Gold in futures in Commodity Exchanges by locking in the price at the current level. This is indeed a highly beneficial scheme for investors who plan to invest in gold on an instalment basis. Clients can also pay the entire amount at any time and take delivery of gold.

Moving in line with the futures trading in Commodities, ASCTL also launched its trading on Safal National Exchange (SNX). SNX is a delivery based electronic spot market for horticulture commodities aimed at building a National Integrated Produce Market in an exchange format. It provides a platform, where sellers can sell at the best possible rate and buyers can buy at the most competitive rate. ASCTL has been one of the most active participants on this exchange platform. The total turnover was around 1000 tonnes during the period Dec '07 till Mar '08.

Annual Report March 2008

As proposed in last year's Annual Report, Internet trading facility for trading in commodities was introduced from July 2007. This has facilitated ease of trading for clients on both NCDEX and MCX from a single terminal. The overall volume during the year 2007-08 was around Rs.8,900 crores across NCDEX and MCX.

CONTRIBUTION TO EXCHEQUER:

We are happy to inform you that your company had been very prompt in paying their dues to the Government and the total contribution to the exchequer during the last financial year is over Rs.25 crores in the form of Service Tax, Income Tax, Securities Transaction Tax, Fringe Benefit Tax and Dividend Tax.
