MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS REPORT

Overview

The year under review was one of consolidation for the Company. The main focus has been on productivity, improvements and cost reduction in view of a challenging external environment. Revenues were under pressure in both the logistics and terminal division and the LPG division in view of uncertainty over the Iraq war and a drop in volumes handled. As a result, the Company saw a fall in earnings compared to 2001/2.

Financial Highlights

- PAT broadly stable at Rs. 7 crores
- EBITDA lower at Rs. 13.4 crores
- EPS at Rs. 4.32 per share
- Debt to Equity Ratio at 0.6
- Return on Capital Employed at 7.4%

Industry Structure & Development

Unlike 2001-02, the terminalling business did not witness any major new players or substantial capacity addition by the existing players. This development was in tune with the recessionary conditions prevailing in the chemical and petrochemical industry. The absence in growth of business resulted in keen competition amongst the existing established players. In the competing port JNPT, the port authorities announced the closure of the two multipurpose berths dedicated to Bulk Chemicals/POL products upon commissioning of a two berth jetty of Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd. MbPT decided to keep in abeyance the proposed second chemical berth at Pir Pau in view of poor response to their tender. The infrastructure already built in the west coast is adequate for the next few years.

PSU oil companies continue to totally dominate the Indian LPG market. These oil companies are now free to source their requirements as well as to market their products themselves. Accordingly, the two oil major companies in Mumbai have shown interest in utilizing the Company's LPG import infrastructure.

Also, in view of drastic reduction and subsequent planned withdrawal of the LPG subsidy, major multinational players too have evinced interest to get into the packed LPG market by importing through the Aegis Mumbai facility. This will however, take some time to materialize.

Segment-wise Analysis

Logistics and Terminal Division

During the year 2002-03, general recessionary conditions prevailed in the industry, coupled with high and volatile petroleum prices during the run up to the Iraq war. This led to lower volumes handled at the port facility and downward pressure on rates. Revenues were down by 20%.

In response, the Company took aggressive steps to improve productivity, reduce charges for customers, and move to a high throughput business model. The division also began to handle a wider range of petroleum, oil and chemical products.

LPG Division

The gas industry environment was characterized during the year by extreme price volatility throughout the year and by the slow response of the public sector companies to market determined pricing. However, the division has, despite lower sales volumes, improved its margin during the year. The Company is exploring new markets such as auto LPG.

Chemical Distribution Division

The focus of the division continues to move towards distribution of speciality chemicals and agency arrangements with global chemical companies. Prices for traditional oleo chemical products continued to be under pressure due to global economic conditions.

Manufacturing activities in this Division have since been discontinued due to continued increase in the price of the feedstock.

Opportunities and Threats

Aegis is one of India's leading logistics service companies. A significant long-term change is being witnessed in the logistics business whereby multinationals and other large customers are now increasingly requesting integrated logistics services, and dedicated infrastructure. In addition the Company expects growing business from new entrants emerging in petroleum retailing and bulk marketing. This is likely to lead to longer-term contracts and higher volume handling.

The LPG business has considerable under-utilization of capacity. As new areas like Auto LPG emerge and as the business moves towards free market determined pricing, the Company is gearing up to grow volumes.

Increasing supply in the terminal sector may however lead to more pressure on storage rates. The cost of doing business in Mumbai port also needs to be closely watched in order to remain competitive with other ports.

Future Business Outlook

The Company's strategy is to offer the best service in handling oil, gas and chemicals. To be competitive, the Company is striving to continuously improve the productivity of its logistics operations to match best practices in other parts of the world and India. In addition, the Company is moving towards a new business model of high throughput volumes and longer term contracts for major customers.

The Company is also exploring the possibilities of further expansion to a second site in its core liquid logistics business. This will enable increased capacity, diversification into new regional markets and maintenance of market share in a growing market.

A major upside on the LPG business exists with new areas such as Auto LPG.

Internal Control Systems and their adequacy

The Company has a proper and adequate system of internal controls to ensure that all the assets are safeguarded, protected against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are authorized, recorded and reported correctly.

The internal control systems are also designed to ensure that the financial and other records are reliable, for preparing financial statements and other data.

The Company conducts audit of various departments based on an annual audit plan through an independent internal auditor and reports significant observations along with 'Action Taken Reports' to the Audit Committee from time to time. The views of the statutory auditors are also considered to ascertain the adequacy of the internal control system.

Risks & Concerns

The logistics and terminalling business is to a large extent dependent on commodity chemical imports and exports. Any cyclical slowdown in the general economy therefore can affect volumes handled.

Margins in commodity chemicals continue to be dependent on regional direct and indirect taxes viz. sales tax, entry tax, octroi etc. Policy or regulatory change in this area is a significant risk for the terminalling business. The higher cost of operation in major ports which are Government owned, as compared to low cost efficient private ports now in operation, is also a matter of concern.

In spite of government policy of the removal of LPG subsidy by 2005, the conflicting pronouncements by Petroleum & Finance Ministry continue to cause concern to private players.

Human Resources Development

Annual strategic planning reviews involving the Company's top managers along with quarterly reviews are conducted. A continuing emphasis on management development programmes is being maintained. Upgrading the quality of key staff through induction of new recruits and a young management trainee programme has been introduced.

Charity and Philanthropy

The Company makes a large effort in supporting rural development through the work of the Anarde Foundation.

OPERATING PERFORMANCE

The Company earned gross profit before interest and depreciation of Rs. 13.38 crores during the current year. Profits before tax stood at Rs. 6.26 crores. Net profit after tax was Rs. 7.01 crores.

LIQUID TERMINAL DIVISION

The year 2002-03 witnessed a turbulent environment for business. Although the year began strongly, by the second half, with tensions in the Middle East due to the Iraq war and problems with octroi, revenues were under considerable pressure. Commodity supply and prices remained volatile leading to lower traffic at the port. However, many of these temporary distortions appeared to be under control by the end of the year and business began to return to normal.

The terminal's facilities have been augmented with a view to achieving versatility in handling more products, higher throughput and providing value added services to key customers.

The Company received ISO 14001 quality certification reflecting the division's ability to offer superior service to customers. The Company is the first independent terminal in the Country to receive ISO 14001 certification for environmental management practices.

CHEMICAL DISTRIBUTION DIVISION

The focus of the division continues to move towards distribution of speciality chemicals and agency arrangements with global chemical companies. Prices for traditional oleo chemical products continued to be under pressure due to global economic conditions.

During the year the Company achieved a substantial reduction in operating costs. Manufacturing activities in this Division have since been discontinued due to continued increase in prices of feedstock.
