(A) INDUSTRY STRUCTURE & DEVELOPMENT

The Indian economy grew strongly for a few years after the Global Financial Crisis in 2007-08. However, fiscal 2012-13 has not been one of its best years with deceleration in GDP growth rates, widening fiscal and current account deficits and currency volatility. The Real GDP Growth rate slowed down to 5.0% for fiscal 2012-13. However, during second half of FY13, there was some stability in macro environment, largely as a result of a series of steps undertaken by the government such as liberalizing of FDI regime in certain sectors, rationalization of retail fuel prices and reining in of fiscal spending; although a lot more remains to be done. While the situation appeared to be improving, some recent developments on political front have once again raised concerns about Government's ability to carry forward the reform process.

Current Account Deficit (CAD) in FY13 is the highest ever at around 5% of GDP as gold and oil imports rose sharply, while exports declined on weak external demand. High CAD increases macro vulnerability, as the country has to rely on fickle foreign flows to fund the CAD. However, recent fall in oil and gold prices and restrictions on gold imports should contain CAD. Moreover, improving global economy has also resulted in exports gaining traction. So overall CAD may have seen its worst and is expected to improve in FY14. The external economy has been weak throughout FY13 and this is reflected in poor performance of India's exports. However, financial risks in global economy have subsided substantially with interventions by major central banks, particularly ECB. In late 2012, ECB provided a much-needed lifeline to European troubled sovereigns by announcing Asset Purchase Programme. Meanwhile, economic data particularly from the US, suggests an improving trend including better US housing and labour markets, which have been at the heart of global problems since 2008. Both these developments augur well for global economy. The key challenges like infrastructure development, spread of financial intermediation and financial inclusion, improvement in governance and productivity enhancement need to be met head on. As business confidence is restored with measures in the right direction, investment spending should be back on track.

Industry overview

FY13 bought some respite to investors, after a dismal FY12. The year started on a worrying note, owing to announcement of retrospective taxing of FII's. However, a change of guard at Finance Ministry turned things around, with Government announcing a series of reforms like FDI in retail, diesel price hike etc. Within Capital Markets however, fresh capital raising activity continued to suffer the most with capex investment cycle grinding to a near halt. Going forward, FY14 looks like a year of improving macros, but politics could be an overhang on the markets with national elections barely a year away and corporate business confidence being low.

Your Company has built and managed its business through challenging times and this time too we are firm in our resolve to look ahead and turn challenges into opportunities by devising and implementing coherent strategies in an intelligent manner.

(B) OPPORTUNITIES & THREATS

As a financial services intermediary, the company's growth and profitability are, to a large part, dependent on the stable growth and functioning of the Capital markets. The growth of financial services sector will allow the Company to grow businesses in each of the verticals. However, stubborn inflation, high fiscal and Current Account Deficit, slow pace of reforms, and continued Eurozone crisis has led to the sliding of Indian GDP growth to around 5%. Renewed political uncertainty at the centre currently is continuing to cast its shadow on the return of growth. Given this none-too-rosy scenario for FY14, the goal for this year for the Company will be to improve operating efficiency.
