DIVIDEND

In the absence of profit, your company is skipping dividend for the year 1997-98.

OPERATION

During the year under review, your company has shown steady growth inspite of overall recession in industry, with turnover touching Rs.24 crores. Your company is now able to maintain consistently high quality of products and has got a good grip on the technology. Your company has earned a reputation as a quality supplier and is well accepted in various industries like Food & Beverages, Fisheries, Fruits & Flowers, Pharmaceuticals, Electronics & Consumer Durables, Auto components, Bicycles, Yarn & Textiles, Ceramic tiles, and many more. Your company has got a good response by way of repeat orders and expansion of customer base, spread all over the country.

Exports from India suffer because of poor quality packaging. More and more exporters are realising that it is not sufficient to make a good quality product, it is also important to pack it well. A good product, if packed poorly, looks inferior. Studies have estimated that good quality packaging will boost our export efforts by more than Rs. 5,000 crores. Your company's products are helping in this effort directly and serving a vital national purpose.

Your company is working on new projects to eliminate or minimise use of environment unfriendly materials like wood and thermocol (EPS) in the field of packaging. Your company is working on design and development of heavy duty boxes, pallets, fitments etc. Your company takes privilege and is very happy to have been called upon by the Defence Ministry to be a member of a committee to help replace wood with corrugated not only as a packaging material but for other applications also. Your company see this as a long term assignment which is both in the national interest and environmentally useful.

Your company is also actively involved with various customers to introduce the corrugated boxes for transportation of fruits and vegetables and replacing wooden crates. Your company has helped many companies standardising their packaging specifications.

The effective use of corrugated as a material can go beyond its conventional role of packaging. To stretch the use of the material to unlimited applications, the company organised ECO (Everything Corrugated Offers); a design competition to celebrate Eco-friendliness expressed through innovation in corrugated. The competition was cosponsored by the National Institute of Design, Bobst Switzerland and Khatema Fibres Limited. The competition got rave reviews from the national press and TV, and also press coverage from international magazines.

The company has now set up a division ECO, which will design manufacture and sell everything other than packaging out of corrugated. The main area of thrust would be stationery products, home products, exhibition systems, furniture and children products.
