Company's projects of Vibhusha Bungalows and Nisarg Farm Houses are progressing very well. Moreover projects for small houses at Geratpur and Moraiya have been recently launched.

4. MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS(A) INDUSTRY STRUCTURE AND DEVELOPMENT :

Development of housing and construction industry in India is influenced by country's steady economic growth and bullish capital market. Better infrastructural facilities such as roads, electricity and water, growing urbanization due to better employment and business opportunities, easy availability of finance have given boost to demand of housing sector.

(B) REVIEW OF OPERATIONS :

During the year 2005-06 total income of the Company was Rs. 572.60 Lacs against which the company had incurred total expenditure of Rs. 468.90 Lacs, as a result of which net profit of company was Rs. 88.18 Lacs.

(C) OPPORTUNITIES AND THREATS :

After earthquake in Gujarat in 2001, demand for bungalows has increased considerably. As the Company is having large land at various locations suitable for scheme of bungalows, the company is positioned to take advantage of demand for bungalows.

Increasing cost of cement, steel and labour and competition from small builders are likely to affect margins of the Company. Due to increase in the rate of interest by the Banks, demand for residential property for the purpose of investment is likely to be adversely affected.

(D) INTERNAL CONTROL SYSTEM :

The company has proper and adequate system of internal controls to ensure that all assets are safeguarded and protected against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions
