

Dear Shareholders,

The time is right to raise the case for India's sugar industry.

I have some fundamental points.

India's economy was liberalised in 1991 but India's sugar industry remains under control.

Why single out one industry for sustained regulation?

Why is the country not creating a sustainable ecosystem that benefits all stakeholders of India's sugar industry?

This Annual Report suggests answers that could benefit the farmers, millers and consumers.

Everyone.

Vivek Saraogi, Managing Director

Win-win-win.

Five ways of creating a sugar ecosystem
that benefits growers, millers and consumers

Balrampur Chini Mills Limited | Annual Report 2013-14

Forward-looking statement

In this Annual Report we have disclosed forward-looking information to enable investors to comprehend our prospects and take informed investment decisions. This report and other statements - written and oral - that we periodically make contain forward-looking statements that set out anticipated results based on the management's plans and assumptions. We have tried wherever possible to identify such statements by using words such as 'anticipates', 'estimates', 'expects', 'projects', 'intends', 'plans', 'believes', and words of similar substance in connection with any discussion of future performance.

We cannot guarantee that these forward looking statements will be realised, although we believe we have been prudent in assumptions. The achievement of results is subject to risks, uncertainties and even inaccurate assumptions. Should known or unknown risks or uncertainties materialise, or should underlying assumptions prove inaccurate, actual results could vary materially from those anticipated, estimated or projected. Readers should bear this in mind.

We undertake no obligation to publicly update any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
