MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Wind Power Development - Domestic Scenario

During the last year the power generation from Wind Mills in India has considerably increased with additions of new projects in the country. This trend is continuing and the growth rate is likely to be the highest in the coming financial year. These additions have taken place in the States of Karnataka, Tamil Nadu, Rajasthan and Gujarat. Since March 2002 there has been no private investments in Maharashtra and only a few MWs of Wind Mill projects have been added by State Government's nodal agency, as demonstration projects. This situation is due to the present State Government policies and also State Electricity Board's non compliance of the directions given by the Regulatory Commission.

However the State Government, to encourage renewable energy, has come out with Renewable Energy Portfolio Obligation Standards for all the utility companies. This Standard requires utility companies to compulsorily generate or buy a specific quantity ( a percentage of total energy generated by these power producers) of renewable energy, which should change the trend in future. The Government has also levied additional cess of 4 paise per unit to be collected from the industrial electricity consumers towards a fund to be used for the infrastructure development for the Renewable energy projects. Your company is closely monitoring these developments for taking appropriate decisions.

Power Tariff and Government Policy

Your Company had set up the Wind Power Project as per the prevailing Wind Power Policies of Government of Maharashtra. However the State Electricity Board (MSEB) made many changes while implementing the Policy. After prolonged procedure, the Maharashtra Energy Regulatory Commission (MERC) passed an Order in 2003, giving the required clarity on various issues including the Transmission and Distribution loss component to be deducted while giving credit to the wind power generation. The various administrative issues of the Order are being put in place. However, MSEB which is the main recipient of wind energy, is yet to fully implement the directions issued by MERC Order. Your company is confident that MSEB will finally adhere to the MERC Order. For this purpose your Company is closely working with the respective Associations. This will also bring clarity to the future development of new projects for your company.

The performance of Company's projects

During the year 2003-04 the power generation has increased by 4.20 Million units (i.e. by 12%) compared to previous year. This was possible due to better upkeep of machines and connecting grid lines as well as better winds during the year.

The Wind Mill machines have a long term all-inclusive contract for the day to day operations and maintenance with the machine supplier. The service provider also geared up to make few improvements and achieve this incremental uptime.

The day-to-day operations and maintenance at site were closely monitored using inhouse expertise and the required changes were sought and implemented by the service provider. This has resulted in significant improvements in machine uptime and power generation. With these efforts your project is one of the highest power generating projects of the size of this kind. In recognition of this achievement, Maharashtra Energy Development Agency (MEDA) has given the Company, Renewable Energy Award 2003 for grid connected wind power projects. This year's improved performance also helped to avail power generation related benefits early during the year.

Your project has the independent line upto Satara Substation where Power is evacuated to the State grid. This substation has capacity limits for evacuation of power generated. There has been addition of Government demonstration project to the same sub station. During the peak season it is possible that the generated wind power may not get fully consumed at the Substation and thus there may be some difficulty in evacuating the power. Generally MSEB does rationing for evacuation of power for few hours during the peak wind time in a day. One can anticipate that this may happen for a few days resulting in few hours of down time. However, steps are being taken to minimize such occurrences and to bring about necessary changes in Substation. We hope this should get completed before the end of this windy season.

Your company is also ensuring to have the required Human Relations balance and cohesion amongst the operating manpower team of the service provider to prevent any loss of generation.

Social issues and environment

Last year, some misleading reports tried to relate scarcity of rainfall during the earlier years in the region with the Wind Farm Projects in Satara.

The facts of the case were addressed by your company at the appropriate forums and through Association in order to remove this misconception. Government of Maharashtra also set up an expert committee, to look into the matter and submit the report to Government. The Committee's report also confirmed that such reduction in rainfall is of cyclical nature and is not due to the Wind Farm Projects. This was also proved during the last season, with heavy rainfall in the region. This matter has now been settled and your company's operations were not in any way affected during the year.

Green Energy - Domestic and International Scenario

Your company had earlier envisaged to get additional revenue for the completed power projects, under carbon credit benefit of the Kyoto protocol. But it is now clear that your company will not be eligible for carbon credit benefit.

To fall in line with the Protocol, Government of India, under Ministry of Environment and Forests, has set up "Designated National Authority" to speed up clearances and coordinate with the regulating agency of the protocol. It will also speed up the development of non-conventional power generation projects for claiming such carbon credits. However, the Clean Development Mechanism (CDM) Board is now considering only the projects which came into existence, with the sole purpose of mitigation of carbon related gases, and executed from the time of planning itself and following all the procedures as now initiated by the Board for eligibility for carbon credit. Therefore, your company can consider availing carbon credit for new projects, if any, in future.
