Dear Shareholder,

Re: Dematerialisation of Shares

We have great pleasure in informing you that the option of holding the shares of the Company in electronic mode (also called demat form) is now available. This facility is available through National Securities Depository Limited (NSDL) Mumbai, the first Depository in India, promoted jointly by National Stock Exchange of India Limited, Unit Trust of India and the Industrial Development Bank of India Limited. The functions of NSDL are regulated by Securities and Exchange Board of India.

At present the shares are available in paper form, which have to be safeguarded against loss, misappropriation, theft, fire, etc. The electronic mode aims at eliminating these disadvantages and the voluminous and cumbersome paper work involved in scripbased system. This system provides for conversion of physical securities in the electronic form through the process of dematerialisation of share certificates and facilitates share transfers electronically without involving any share certificates or execution of transfer deeds. Just as your money is safe in your bank account, in the same manner, you can keep yourself free from tensions of safeguarding your shares certificates, by keeping them in a book entry form.

Brief procedure for converting the physical shares into electronic/depository/demat form is explained below:

You will have to open an account with a designated agent of NSDL, called the Depository Participant (DP). DPs are mainly bankers and share brokers who operate as agents of NSDL (list of DPs may be obtained from the Company). After opening the account with DP, you have to give a demat request alongwith the original share certificates to your DP who will get your shares dematerialised from the Company. It will take about 15-20 days for dematerialisation and the crediting of your account with the number of shares for which you have opted for dematerialisation.

After dematerialisation of shares, you will get a periodical statement of your shareholding from the DP.

Once your shares are converted in the demat form, NSDL will become the registered owner of the shares in the books of the Company. However as beneficial owner, you will continue to get, as before, the annual report, dividend, bonus/rights shares, etc.

Further trading in electronic shares is much simpler and also safe as compared to the present scrip based system. If you wish to buy shares in the electronic form, you have to place an order with your broker as before and inform him your depository account number. The shares brought by you will be credited to your account by the DP without handing over the physical share certificates or the transfer deeds to you, thereby eliminating chances of any forged scrips or bad delivery. In the same manner the shares in the electronic form can be sold through the DP by informing him your account number with necessary instructions for sale, without actual delivery of the physical certificates.

Apart from this, the option for reconverting your electronic holding to the physical scrips always remains open to you. In case, if at any time in future, you desire to get back the physical share certificates, it can be done by a request to the DP, subject to applicable terms and conditions. It will take about 30 days for the Company to issue share certificates against shares earlier held in demat form.

The various advantages which will accrue by holding your shares in the electronic form are:

- 1. No stamp duty on dematerialisation and transfer of shares.
- No courier/postal charges, also no loss in transit and consequently no expenditure and cumbersome procedure for the issue of duplicate shares.
- 3. No chances of bad delivery which is mainly due to forged signatures, signature differences, expiry of the transfer deed and various mistakes in filling up the transfer deeds, etc.
- 4. Quick transfer of shares purchased/sold in an electronic form.
- 5. Eliminate litigation on account of fake certificates, disputes in respect of ownership of shares purchased.
- 6. Dematerialised shares can also be pledged for securing loans.

We hope you will assess the various advantages of holding your shares in an electronic form and opt for dematerialisation of your shares very soon.

In case you require any further information/clarification, please feel free to write to the Secretarial Department, Ballarpur Industries Limited, Thapar House, 124, Janpath, New Delhi – 110 001, or call at 011-3368332, 3368811.
