OPERATIONS :

The Auto and Tractor industries did not fulfil the expectations of recovery towards the growth mode during the year 2000-01. The production levels in Medium and Heavy Commercial Vehicle segments, which contribute significantly to the sales turnover, declined by 22.5%. The Tractor segment, which is next in order to Medium and Heavy Commercial Vehicle segment in terms of contribution, also declined by 12%. The Passenger Car segment followed the trend by registering a decline of 12.6%. Marginal growths of 3.3% and 1.3% were registered in the Light Commercial and Multi-Utility Vehicle segments respectively. The sales to the OE market of the Company's products declined by 15.92% compared to the previous year. In the After-Market, the sales registered a growth of 8.2%, through better channel management, brand promotion and improved level of customer service.

The conventional analysis of production and sales in the industry as reported by the Vehicle Manufacturers is no longer a barometer of the industry trend and a new concept of interjecting Retail Sales as a substitute for the OEM's sales, has more realistically projected the demand-supply ratio in each of the market segments. This change in the method of monitoring the industry, has inevitably brought in the compulsion of having to draw up production plans for the next financial year taking due note of inventories at the market level. This trend is evident in the industry projections for the First Quarter of the Current Financial Year.

In the After-Market, a combination of increased product life and improved methods of vehicle maintenance has brought in a new feature of reduced demand for a given level of vehicle parc. This factor has been further compounded by lower utilisation of vehicles due to the market economics in the haulage industry. Estimates of demand compression in the After-Market segments, particularly in the engine overhaul sector, vary from 25% to 30%.

Viewed in the context of the market scenario as above, the performance of the Company during the year under review is satisfactory.

Export sales registered a growth of 10.3% over the previous year and a significant aspect to be noted is that in the value-added segment of finished products, the growth has been very significant while there has been a decline of 10.2% in the export of Powders and Bimetallic strips in the Materials category. With the steps initiated in the year that has gone by on market development and enlarging the product range for exports, the Company expects to build significantly on the export segment in the Current Financial Year.
