Welcome to Edelweiss House

A short distance from the financial hub of the country – Bandra-Kurla Complex in Mumbai – is a gleaming new building called Edelweiss House, headquarters of the Edelweiss Group.

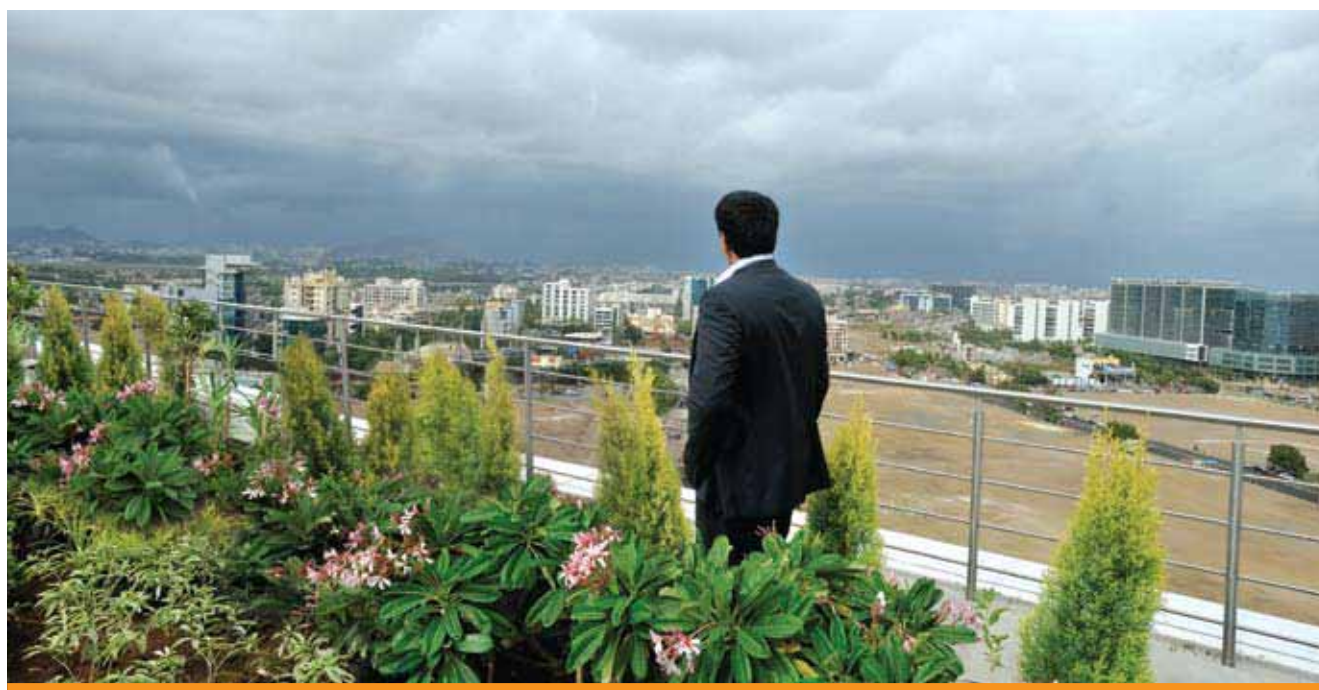

This 15-storey building is the centre of pan-India operations of the Group's five businesses peopled by over 3,100 employees.

A building is like an organisation. It requires careful thought, planning, creativity and flawless execution to transform a collection of steel, cement, glass and wood into a modern, energy-filled corporate hub. The same ingredients go into building a thriving business like Edelweiss.

Top-line growth in FY12 despite adverse economic circumstances globally and in India

Edelweiss has consistently delivered growth and profits year-on-year. In FY12 despite adverse economic circumstances globally and in India, the Group managed a 17% top-line growth.

The Group has continued to maintain its leadership position in mature businesses like Institutional Equities, Investment Banking,

Debt Capital Markets and Corporate Loans while building new businesses like Life Insurance, Commodities, Retail Capital Markets and Retail Credit. With an eye on the future, it has continued to invest in systems, processes, technologies and training to improve efficiencies and enhance skills.

This story of growth and investment is the real edifice that Edelweiss has built.

Welcome to this guided tour of the real “Edelweiss House”.

BUSINESS PRINCIPLES

A Foundation of Values

A building is only as strong as its foundation. Building a successful business too, requires a solid foundation for it to grow. Edelweiss rests on the strongest possible foundation – the Edelweiss Business Principles.

These principles uphold the Edelweiss value proposition: “Ideas create, values protect” and have helped the Group to grow from a monoline company a few years ago to a multi-line diversified financial services group with a pan-India footprint.

- We will focus on Growth

In the last decade, Edelweiss' revenues have grown at a Compounded Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 72%. More importantly, these revenues now come from a diversified set of businesses, de-risking the business model.

- We will focus on the Long Term

Over the last three years, Edelweiss has invested significantly in new businesses, technology, systems and infrastructure. This was done with an eye on opportunities available in the long-term.

- Our Financial Capital is a critical resource for growth

As of March 31, 2012, the Group has a balance-sheet size of ₹ 145 billion. This has grown from ₹ 52 billion in 2010; a CAGR of 67%.

- We will respect Risk

An unrelenting focus on managing risk has ensured that Edelweiss' capital is preserved even during extremely challenging environments.

- We will be Fair to our clients

Customer-centricity is part of the Group's DNA. It is investing significant resources in making the organisation more customer-focused. Edelweiss' senior-most executives have undergone an internationally renowned orientation programme and another 1,000 employees are being given rigorous training to evangelise a culture of customer focus and service throughout the organisation.

- We will operate as a Partnership

Around 53% of Edelweiss is owned by the management and employees. This fosters an intrapreneurial culture and a strong sense of ownership.

- We will take care of our People

To enhance the skills of its people, Edelweiss has some of the most broad-based training programmes in the industry. Over the year, the Group has trained over 2,000 employees through 2,441 man days of investment. This employee engagement is demonstrated by low senior management attrition.

- We will be a Thinking Organisation

Edelweiss is a thought leader in pioneering research, cutting-edge technology and processes that have not only built but institutionalised the organisation. Its thematic, alternative and corporate research products provide in-depth analysis and are respected throughout the industry.

- Our Reputation and Image is more important than any financial reward

Financial services brands are all about trust. Edelweiss has actively invested in building a strong brand. As a result, Edelweiss was chosen as a Business SuperBrand by an independent body. The organisation has also been awarded "Best Advisor Broker, Asia" at the Exchanges & Brokers Awards 2012, organised by London based World Finance magazine.

- We will Obey and Comply with the rules of the land

Edelweiss has always complied with the letter and spirit of the law and ensured that all its businesses conform with the governing regulations and all sales efforts are carried out in a transparent manner.

BUSINESSES

Business Pillars

The weight of a building is borne by its pillars. The stronger the pillars, the taller the edifice can rise.

At Edelweiss, the pillars are its Businesses. Starting from one pillar, Investment Banking, the Group has consciously invested time, efforts and resources to build more pillars so that it can continue to grow taller and more robust.

Today, Edelweiss stands tall on five main pillars:

- Credit
- Capital Markets & Asset Management
- Commodities
- Life Insurance
- Treasury
