OVERALL PERFORMANCE:

Your company registered higher growth during the first two quarters of the financial year 2008-2009. However, the last two quarters of the financial year 2008-2009 had been one of the worst recessionary periods all across the globe and your company also got adversely affected by it. During this period the production level of the company declined significantly due to lack of demand and liquidity in the market. There was a sharp increase in finished inventory of the company coupled with significant decline in the value of the product, which resulted in reduction in order position of the company considerably. Increase in the interest rates further burdened the company with additional cost of holding the finished inventory. Your company adopted several cost cutting measures to minimize the losses during this tough times. However, In spite of all the efforts of the management, your company ended the year with a net loss of Rs.527.38 lacs as compared to a net profit of Rs.276.72 lacs during the previous year 2007-2008. The turnover of the company also declined significantly to Rs.37154.26 lacs as compared to Rs.47783.24 lacs of previous year. Your Company is hopeful that with the revival of the domestic and world economy, it will be able to reset itself in the path of growth.

DIVIDEND:

In the absence of profit, your directors are unable to declare any dividend for the year 2008-2009.

PROSPECTS:

The Special steel industry's performance was good during the first half of the financial year 2008-2009 however, during the last two quarters, demand supply situation changed drastically as a result of significant and sudden slow down in world economy. The financial crises of the American and European economy further resulted into lack of trust in the world market and contraction of money flow in the markets. Indian economy was also affected by this financial turmoil of the western countries, which resulted in slowdown of the Indian economy during this quarter. The market sentiments were badly affected and Special steel industry also faced the impact of the same. The demand for steel went down drastically by 30-40% during the period October-December 2008. Since the second half of FY2008-09, the special and alloy steel, in particular, has suffered from low capacity utilization and falling prices of products.

The period upto September 2008 of the last fiscal witnessed normal capacity utilisation and most of the steel mills reported good performances inspite of huge hike in raw materials like sponge iron, scrap, ferro alloys etc. Your company also reported good performance and higher capacity utilisation of 90% with sales turn over of Rs.260.54 Crores during this period. But due to slow down in the subsequent period, overall sales turnover declined by 22.1% due to various reasons like drop in export business in last two quarters, loss of stainless business, comparatively less carbon and alloy steel order and less conversion job work especially in the October – December 2008 period and also less capacity utilization of the plant which had dropped to 44% and 41% respectively in the third and fourth quarter.

In spite of the slowdown in the economy, your company has gone ahead with the modernization of its existing steel melting facilities for improving quality by installing equipments like Automatic Mould Level Control in June 2008 (AMLC) and the installation of Mould EMS in first week of June 2009. This modernization will lead to better internal soundness and better surface finish in steel manufactured by the company. It will also enable the company to have better yield and lower the variable cost of the product manufactured by the company. In the month of July 2009 your company successfully completed the commissioning of open die forging plant. With this facility your company will be able to cater to new industrial segment like heavy duty gear, rolling mill rolls, sugar mills, wind mills, cement industry and Nuclear power sector in longer run. It will reduce company's dependence on auto & auto component sector and ensure increased production of value added products with a sustainable business in the coming years. Additional capacity of 1000MT per month from forging unit will widen the company's product range and improve realization per MT. Your company is also trying to increase the orders of carbon and alloy steel grades by increasing its customer base.

The current Fiscal of 2009-10 started with a positive note with slight improvement in demand from auto sector. The order booking position during the month of April-May 2009 was also encouraging for your company. The capacity utilization of the rolling mill has also increased during the period due to increased conversion job work level. Government measures like reduction of excise duty, 5% import duty on selected steel items, increased spending in project related work, promotion of stainless steel utilization in railways, project clearance for several massive Nuclear power plants etc., has created positive trend in the industry and the industry is expected to recover to the post October 2008 level by second quarter of FY 2009-2010.

FINANCE:

The Company has not accepted any fixed deposit from the public during the year under review. During the year your company received USD 2.94 million as External Commercial Borrowing (ECB) from Israel Discount Bank, London under both automatic route and approval route as permitted by the Reserve Bank of India. The Company has utilized the money availed under ECB for funding the forge round bar project and for modernization of its steel melting shop.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSIONS AND ANALYSIS

INDUSTRY STRUCTURE, DEVELOPMENT AND OTHER RELATED MATTERS

Indian special steel industry has enough potential to grow even though the last 6-8 months have been extremely tough for the industry due to global melt down. The Fluctuating raw material prices and recessionary condition prevailing in developed countries like USA, Japan, EU etc. has affected the export sector significantly. The trend of demand supply has completely changed across the globe due to slow down in economy of most of the countries and realisation remained a worry for all steel mills as steel prices crashed by over 40-50 % compared to the early quarter of 2008 due to severe competition amongst them. Falling demand, increasing inventory, delayed payment and falling prices of steel had became the feature of the steel industry in the second half of the year. Original Equipment Manufacturers (OEM) are also putting pressure on steel Mills for reducing prices citing slow down and fall in prices of raw materials.

Several governmental measures like imposition of import duty on steel, reduction of excise duty, increased spending on infrastructure, promotion of stainless steel in Railway coaches and wagons, Metro Rail projects, airports, setting up of various defence projects and increased allocation for Jawaharlal Nehru National Urban Renewal Mission (JNNURM) scheme etc. have created a positive sentiment in the market.

Your company has also undertaken various measures for better utilisation of the production capacity and reduction in cost of production. Further there is severe competition between producers of special steel to grab the orders getting released due to slight improvement in demand. Your company has decided to increase its customer base in non auto sector and also increase its share in more of value added products. More number of new grades have been developed during the year and with the commissioning of the forging plant in July 2009 the product and size range of your company has increase further.

The present growth of GDP of the country of 5% to 6% is likely to continue during the financial year 2009-10 and the production of steel is expected to gradually pick up. Faced with steep fall in demand, most of the steel mills including your company had curtailed production by opting for 5 Day/ lesser no. of Working days starting from November'08 which has brought down operating costs and also other expenses. Out processing work of forging and proof machining of critical tool steel were also carried out for meeting the customer commitment given earlier. In 2008-09 automobile industry grew by 2.96%, only due to steep fall in demand during the last two quarters and auto component industry by 6 % which is also low when compared to the performance of last year. With the improvement in the market conditions these sectors are likely to register better growth resulting into more demand for steel products.

During the year your company has successfully implemented the oracle based ERP system in the company to improve data availability and better efficiency in all operations. It has also received IS/TS 16949 certification on 12/09/2008 (in addition to the existing IS 9001-2000 certification) which is a well known quality Management system with special focus on continual improvement having stress on effective analysis of data to drive improvement throughout the organization. ISO /TS certification will enable your company to increase supplies to automobile sector which is acceptable to the European and US automobile industries alike.

Your company has also got approval from TUV Nor Systems GmbH & Co. KG for PED for more critical grades like F12, F22, 410, 420,B16, T-91 etc., which will enable your company to increase its share in alloy and stainless steel business.
