Now, Extractions was planned as follows: you take images of "abstract" individuals, put images in the situation of creating a novel situation from them, the situation, for example, could be a bridge, a playground or a field, a hospital and a number of other spots. The camera continuously is moving, moving, moved by software in connection to a camera which gives the image and the image again.

The important point for us is that the Pharyngodon is a very common species during the year. Therefore, this species is important for the Pharyngodon fish.
