OPERATIONS

The Indian Automotive Industry continues to display robust growth with the total production in the Passenger Car Industry crossing 1.5 million mark vehicles representing a growth of 18% over the previous year. The exports of cars have reached a level of 2 lakhs during the year. With the OEMs investing in new plants and increased investments in additional capacities, the growth prospect for the Auto Component Industry continues to be extremely bright.

The growth in the automotive industry has naturally led to larger business volumes for the auto components industries. However, global price hikes particularly Steel, Aluminium and Nickel have pushed up cost of Raw Materials and consumables eroding to some extent gains arising out of higher volumes. Your Company has responded well to the situation by the adoption of economies in all areas of operation and through cost containment measures.

The operation of the Company on the whole has been quite satisfactory. The Piston Rings Operations in particular performed extremely well and contributed significantly to the overall profit.

In the Transmission Products Operations the Company has had to put up with some reversals. While the plant and equipment had been installed successfully and rendered operational, teething problems emerged during the ramp up to volume production and extended the time for the technology to take root. In this Division the company has taken up a new product and is implementing a technology of a higher order needed for this product – cold forming as against the conventional method of machining from solid stock.

While such problems and delays are but to be expected in a project of this nature, the Company's response was quick and with an intense effort, by the third quarter of the year, the technology had been assimilated fully and involved processes stabilized. The plant was ready for volume production and bulk deliveries of a part for a leading customer commenced.

However the delay has had some adverse effect and consequently the contribution to overall sales from the Transmission Products Division was not significant.

Also, in contrast to the situation in the OE Market, there was stagnation in the After Market. The combination of these two factors limited the growth in the company's turnover and profitability to modest levels.

Your Company has registered a turnover of Rs.58.03 Crores as against Rs.56.36 Crores in the previous year and due to the difficult circumstances explained above in the OCF operations, the Company's profit before tax was Rs.6.03 Crores as against Rs.7.76 Crores in the previous year.

OUTLOOK

The Vehicle Industry is continuing to make significant strides by launching new models and expanding production facilities and with more global players setting up new facilities in the country, the potential for the components industry is expanding rapidly.

Your Company continues to maintain a strong presence with the OEMs and is exerting itself to improve its position in the Aftermarket.

The Company is confident that the problems encountered last year in the Transmission Products Operations have been left behind and the division is now poised to take on volume production.

The Company believes it is well positioned to seize on the opportunities arising out of the growth in the Vehicle Industry with sufficient capacities on tap to meet emerging demands.

The employee morale is satisfactory and the Company has ongoing motivational programmes to sustain it.

As against these positive factors the increase in interest rates have pushed up the cost of finance and this has had to be taken into account.

Considering all these factors the Company has set for itself a realistic target that is higher than last year's performance and will spare no effort to achieve this target with resultant higher sales and increased profitability.
