OPERATIONS

The Indian auto and auto components industry is currently facing its most formidable challenge – the slowing down of demand in all segments of the industry. The overall earnings growth of the auto component industry during 2012-13 remained subdued in the wake of weak demand, inflation in overheads, acute power shortage and adverse currency volatility. The revenue growth of the auto components industry is typically a close reflection of the blended growth of individual automotive segments viz., passenger vehicles (PV), commercial vehicles (CV) and two-wheelers (2W). The revenue growth of these select entities has been consistently declining over the last six quarters with growth being the slowest in Q1, 2012-13.

For your Company in particular, the sluggish growth of new business in Rings and OCF Divisions and the resultant unutilized high capex and a steep increase in power costs have been the major causes for the middling performance. On a positive note, your Company has been able to achieve much of its cost reduction efforts and price increase targets for the year 2012-13.

Your Company, though it achieved a Turnover of ₹ 95.18 Crores compared to ₹ 91.26 Crores of Turnover achieved in previous year incurred a loss of ₹ 4.18 crores.

OUTLOOK

The revenue growth prospects of the auto components industry over the near term remain somber as all three automotive segments are likely to grow at a low-to-mid single digit rate in 2013-14. That said, the performance of individual auto component manufacturers may continue to vary depending on the entities' revenue mix (OEMs/Replacement Market/Non-Automotive Segment), segment bias (PV/CV/2W) and geographical diversification (domestic/exports).

For your company, though the current trend is likely to prevail during the first half of the financial year, it is expected that in the second half of the financial year there would be significant improvement. The company has been developing a number of new products, both Rings and forged components, and with a breakthrough in these areas significant improvement in revenue performance is expected next year.

However, looking ahead the various technology improvements and upgrades implemented in product design and development, process engineering, manufacturing, quality and other related areas have strengthened the company's manufacturing base and this is expected to bear fruit in the coming years.

DIRECTORS

In accordance with the provisions of the Companies Act, 1956, Mr Masaaki Otani, Mr N Venkataramani and Dr R Mahadevan, Directors, retire by rotation and are eligible for reappointment.

Mr A Venkataramani, Managing Director is being re-appointed for a further period of 3 years effective 01.11.2013. With effect from 1st June 2013, Dr N Gowrishankar will be a Non Executive Director.
