

ANNUAL REPORT 2009

Bringing Joy Through Power

From the Chairman's Desk

Dear Shareholders,

I write this at a time when the world has just begun to heave a sigh of relief as the first signs of the end of recession start appearing on the horizon. With this positive transformation taking place at the macro level, your company too has started gearing itself to reach new heights of business success. It will be our endeavor to take advantage of the emerging optimism in the global as well as Indian economy in the larger interest of our stakeholders.

India today is at the cusp of a major growth era that may last for decades. Your company is well poised, after emerging relatively well from the recessionary period, to ride the rising curve of Indian growth story. While we intend to retain the 'old is gold', we are fully conscious to grab the new business opportunities that synthesize well with the growth pattern of the Indian economy

The XIth Five Year Plan lays highest emphasis on Infrastructure, Healthcare, Education, Low-cost Housing etc. We accordingly plan to start new initiatives in these areas within our existing product-mix. Though the new initiatives may take time to come into fruition, success once achieved will be abundant for all of us to share together. As always we shall remain committed to working towards the overall aim of adding value to the stake of every stakeholder, be it shareholders, lenders, creditors, business partners or staff.

While we need your support in our new endeavors, I take this opportunity to wish all our stakeholders and associates the best of luck in the year 2009-10 and ever after. I wish them all the success and their families happiness and long life.

While Exports increased to Rs. 72.50 cr. from Rs. 60.44 cr. previous year, domestic sales declined to Rs. 194.21 cr. from Rs. 214.29 crore. Further, the Company has reported a Net Profit of Rs. 5.63 cr. as against Rs. 13.52 cr. in the previous year.

It may be pertinent for us to explain the reasons for Company's results which were affected by the economic slow down resulting in shrink in construction industry, exports, industrial development and partly on account of market cash crunch including:

- Increased pressure on margins resulting in lower sales
- Rise in raw material prices without corresponding hike in sale prices due to increasing competition.
- Rise in Sundry Debtors due to increased credit period for Dealers / Customers resulting in higher interest cost.
- Overall increase in Interest expenses due to higher interest rates and increased borrowings for purposes of expansion / modernisation while the benefits of increased capex will be seen over time, it resulted in additional interest expenses.
- Exchange rate fluctuation losses of Rs. 1.60 cr.
- Higher fixed expenses especially salaries. While this could have been curtailed, higher salaries were required to be paid to retain talent, in particular, in a highly competitive environment.

Your Directors are fully seized of the Company's performance related issues and have already initiated proactive measures and solutions with a view to achieving a turn-around. Your Directors are aware the solution lies in :

- Enhancing company's market share of sales substantially,
- Improving internal efficiencies in areas of marketing, debt-collection, technology etc.,
- In-depth professionalization of Financial and Risk Management,
- Strengthening Relationship Management with all stake holders including potential customers.,
- Organizing training and education for company executives to impart higher skills for improved performance,
- Restructuring and implementing cost control measures to curtail losses, etc.

Being pro-active and focussed management, the following steps have already been initiated in this regard :

- (a) Appointment of Ernst and Young, a most well-known Financial Consultancy Firm to study and recommend suitable additional measures for building further operational efficiency.
- (b) Efforts are also afoot to further strengthen the Company's internal Management in areas of Marketing, Sales, Recoveries, Exports etc.

Management Discussion & Analysis

Prospects of the Indian Electrical Industry

Like every other industrial sector in India, the Indian Electrical industry too is slowly emerging from out of its protective cover. For far too long has Indian Electrical Industry remained shackled and consequently inward looking. Over the past fifty years there was no exposure to global players and competition, with the result that the industry grew up in a sheltered environment, depending upon the Government for everything, from licenses to protection to tariffs. This, coupled with a lack of global competition encouraged a "cost plus" approach, where every conceivable cost increase was passed on to the customer. Thus there was no motivation to reduce costs.

With delicensing, decontrol and deregulation, the Indian industry has suddenly been exposed to global competition. Since the last decade, India has witnessed what global players have achieved and what they are capable of achieving. The Indian Industry is becoming aware of competition on its own turf. The Indian electrical industry is further besieged by the fact that there is a dearth of business on account of lack of investment in the power infrastructure. Exports would see further drop, as markets in Eus and US have already slowed down.

The Government of India is working towards a target of generating capacity of 2,10,000 MW by 2012 to bridge the gap between the demand and supply and to adhere to its commitment of providing access to electricity to all households by 2012. Based on the generation targets, the Industry has built up its capacity. Thus, today the problem is not of capacity build up, it is of capacity utilisation.

Impact of the global recession on the Indian Electrical Industry.

The Indian economy is not into a recession but in an economic downturn. A classic recession is two successive quarters of negative GDP. The downturn has definitely affected the electrical industry. Consolidated growth for the nine months of 2008-2009 declined sharply to 4.9 per cent from 8.98 per cent in the first half of the year. The Electrical industry had grown 6.6 per cent in the previous quarter and by 11.8 per cent in the first two quarters. Against this, the industry had grown by 14.5 per cent and 24.55 per cent respectively in the corresponding quarters of 2007-2008. To counter this downturn, urgent stimulus is required from the Government to spur the domestic demand and speed up the implementation of the on-going projects like RAPDRP (APRDP II) AND RGGVY. To counter the dumping of electrical goods into the Indian markets by China, the Government of India has taken adequate steps by invoking anti dumping laws.

Future Prospects and Growth of Electrical Industry

The domestic market in India is itself large, and one must firstly satisfy this market with the products that meet international quality standards. With increasing globalisation, every international player is now operating in India, providing goods and services complying with international quality. Once the Indian Industry delivers high quality products and services within the domestic market, accessing the international market to exports should not pose a serious challenge. The Indian Electric Industry is expected to grow to its full potential in the coming years and India will soon come to be recognized for quality products and services which in turn will bring this industry to a position of true leadership. The Indian electric industry has grown because of the Government's thrust and it has reached a stage where the industry has demonstrated its capabilities.

The Electrical Industry centers around various adjunct sectors. Few of them are consumer electricals as well as Industrial electricals, distribution equipment viz. Compact Fluorescent Lamps, Fluorescent Tube Lights, Light Fittings, Luminaries Switches, Switchgears etc. With the thrust of the government on the power generation and the revival of the real estate industry, is bound to offer huge opportunities for the growth of the company.

BUSINESS PERFORMANCE

(Rs. in crores)

Particulars	Year ended
	March 31, 2008	March 31, 2009
Sales & Other Income	277.15	271.17

Profit before Tax	16.34	7.36
Profit after Tax	13.52	5.63
Exports	60.44	72.5

On account of a slow down in the economy specially in the real estate and power generation sectors, which are the main drivers for the products of the company, the desired turnover could not be achieved. However with the Indian economy coming out of the downturn, it is expected that the current year would close with a brighter note.
