MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS REPORT

1. Industry Structure and Development:

The Company continues to implement its strategy of widening the customer base in its activity, however the same is going at a slow pace on account of liquidity constraints being faced by the Company and also because of the accidents and damages.

2. Opportunity and Threats:

The Company is focused on its crystal glassware manufacturing and allied products, which is a high-margin, labour-oriented, niche business with negligible competition and a defensible global strategy. The company plans to have a retail strategy and target the international market in luxury goods. Manufacture of handmade Crystalware being a highly skilled job, it requires a high level of production flexibility and knowledge, which the company has gained over the years. There are many manufacturers and brands in Europe that would need outsourcing due to high labour costs. JIK aims to align itself with top brands of Scandinavia and Europe as a private label (OEM). The Company's objectives entails leveraging on its strong institutional ties as well as become a production outsourcing hub for overseas manufacturers. This can lure new players into the segment attracted by margins. This and an improbable downturn in the entire luxury goods segment are potential threats.

3. Segment-wise or product-wise performance:

It has been fully dealt with in the notes to the accounts.

4. Outlook:

The Company is in the final stages of restructuring and is taking steps for further reduction of debt.

Organised retail segment is growing at the rate of 25-30 % p.a., with revenues from the sector expected to triple from the current US $ 7.7 billion to US $ 23 billion by 2010 (Source: Knight Frank - India Retail Market Review). Fashion and Lifestyle, which drive the segment, constitute majority of the organized retail market. The retail segment for crystalware has undergone a big change and the present market is Rs.4 billion in India and will grow at 100% every year for next three years (Source: The Economic Times)

The Company is already an established player in the hotel segment. With all the major star hotel chains as its clients, the company enjoys the strategic position of being the preferred supplier to the star hotels in India. Additionally, JIK now expects to capture a significant share of the export market mainly due to India's tried and tested labour cost arbitrage, the company's domain knowledge, established client base and a professional corporate set-up.

The company is in the process of firming up plans to enter the retail/export segment of home décor and life style products. This products will be designed by the company, the production will be outsourced and sold under the company brand.

5. Risks & concerns:

The Company faces capital constraint. Further, the second scheme of arrangement under section 391 of the Companies Act 1956 between the company and secured creditors has been filed with Hon'ble High Court
