DIRECTORS' REPORT

The Directors present their report for the year ended March 31, 2000 together with the audited financial accounts for the said year.

2. Textile Industry - An overview of year's scenario

- 2.1 The year under review is one of both triumph and tribulation for the Industry. While it may have crossed the bottom of the trough, the end of the tunnel is not visible as yet. On the one hand, availability of quality cotton has increased substantially due to increased production at USA and China leading to stock piling and fall in prices. However, the other adverse factors such as steep increase in the other input costs such as power, interest and overheads and recession in the domestic sector made their inroads into the already reduced margins and resulted in consequent liquidity crunch continuously in the last four years, which continues to harass this mother industry so much that many mills have closed down or are about to stop their operations. A consequence of this is that there is some striking of a balance between demand and supply albeit it is through closure of units and not through increased level of consumption. As against this, on the export front, bumper crop in USA and substantial carry over stock in China have encouraged CIS countries to put up new spinning units. This new and high competition abroad, has dampened the price sensitive market and lowered the country's exports to Europe. Low margins and realisation difficulties at the Far East are yet to improve and as such, our exports to these countries have not picked up. Again, the large and medium spinning mills, sandwiched as they are between EOUs and SSI Units, have to stave off unfair competition from such units arising in the form of duty concession granted by the Government to the detriment of other and bigger units.
- 2.2 Due to WTO pressures, competition in both domestic and international markets is likely to intensify and this is likely to destabilise indigenous industry. Textile Industry, though it has the strongest raw material and labour base, with its over capacity, poor productivity of labour and machines, tardy export procedures and excessive controls, finds it difficult to compete with other production bases which have sophisticated technologies. China has taken the steps to maintain balance by drastic measures such as scrapping of 10 million spindles. But replication of this in India is not possible. However, to turn around, the country has to think long term in terms of quality improvement through consolidation with no additions to spindleage and not reviving unviable units, especially in the public and co-operative Sectors. In the future, Spinning Industry has to gear itself to change the product mix in tune with market preference and production of excellent yarn.

3. Company's performance

- 3.1 Though the problems which afflicted the textile industry had their own impact on your Company's performance, your Company could still maintain its profitability by managing its costs proactively and side-step the presence on price realisation by following a policy of adherence to quality and technology upgradation.
