Management Discussion and Analysis:

On the eve of presenting the annual results as above, the board is pleased to place hereunder a review of Company's performance, the business imperatives, the gist of industry scenario and the management perspective of opportunities before the Company.

The Industry Overview:

The sustained year on year growth in the domestic cotton output on expected lines, is a significant positive feature worth a longterm valuable reassurance on the input side for the industry which legitimately aspires to maintain an important position and make the best out of its potential role as one of the major global players in cotton textiles.

A notable aspect of the matter is that even after meeting the substantially higher incountry consumption resulting from a large scale fructification of new cotton yarn manufacturing capacities over the current couple of years, a significantly large volume of raw cotton is being exported. Obviously therefore as things stand, the revolutionary upsurge being achieved in the cotton farms in India eventually happens to be supporting the indomitable China's commercial drive of massive value addition in the global arena of cotton textiles. Apparently as this phenomenon is slated to continue, a growth opportunity for the Indian industry clearly stands out to further gear-up its conversion capacities and value addition capabilities offering interalia a vast scope for further employment generation. To effectively garner this advantage on an abiding basis however, there is no escape to addressing the task of enabling the industry reach competitiveness in respect of the crucial energy factor which accounts for an enormous proportion of the conversion costs at the initial stages of manufacture. A case for an urgent macro level policy initiative in this regard is therefore strongly indicated.

As to price movements in Cotton, the globalised regime is of age now and has come into full play. After meeting the whole of the increased domestic consumption, a large volume of Indian cotton has been reaching out to level off the global availability in the face of a trend of marginal drop in the overall world production. As the consumption has been moving up and carryover stocks have been declining worldover including in India, the inevitable result has been significant hardening of prices all over including in India itself.

The union budget 2007 contained a welcome announcement as to continuance of the Technological Upgradation Fund Scheme (TUFS) for Textiles over the whole of the 11th plan period, though budgetary allocation for the purpose was found to be extremely inadequate. As a result the industry has been running a huge backlog of uncleared reimbursements causing a cash strap which couldnot have come at a more difficult juncture than now when it is already face to face with several other odds. in business. Besides, new approvals under TUFS currently stand withheld as there are indications of an impending revision of the scheme. Hopefully the suspension doesnot last long and doesnot end on a note of an ironic dilution of the scheme which is more needed to be operative now than ever before, ofcourse squarely in its original format rather than being pruned as to its contents and cover.

The current turmoil for the Textile & Clothing industry, seemingly arising out of the setback in export realisations on account of appreciation of rupee, is really for reasons far more complex than just the currency values. The demand seems to have significantly slackened and competition from other textile players has become more intense than before, compelling the Indian industry to yield place. The resultant pressure on the domestic market is clearly beyond its capacity to sustain.

Company Performance and Perspective:

The key factors which had their impact on the profit performance for the year under review are that a) since the third quarter of the year the raw material prices have shot up by about 15 percent on one hand and the effective yarn realisation in the domestic aswell as international market has comedown by about 10 to 12 percent on the other hand; and b) the interest cost and Power & Fuel costs have gone up. In the given scenario of price movements on the raw material front and the yarn realisation, prospects for the current year are pinned on revival of demand in the international market.

Implementation of innovative plans at successive stages under the TUFS, has enabled achieve a transformational change in the equipment lineup and systems inkeeping with the latest trends in the domestic aswell as international markets for quality cotton yarns which is the business mainstay of the company.

Upon completion of the current technology upgradation cum expansion plan by September 2007, the installed capacities, estimated production volumes and Turnover values shall be as follows:

Plan for select technical upgradation for the present Fabrics business alongwith revamping of the Fabric processing facilities at the existing location, is in the process of being framed soon enough when processing of new proposals under TUFS is resumed. Developmental efforts as a measure of preparation for future thrust in Fabric business targeting new products are being actively visualised and attempted.

The company had been considering a plan for expansion of superior quality combed cotton yarns business in higher counts group of 34s to 50s by creating a new unit at a new location in the Guntur region of Andhra Pradesh or alternatively, nearer Rajasthan in Gujarat. Land for the purpose is yet to be acquired. In the present business conditions and till the time as approvals under TUFS are resumed, this is being kept on hold. Product development efforts and consolidation of strengths internally aswell as in the market place are on active agenda in the meantime.

Originally the company had planned too for installation of a Cogeneration Thermal Power Unit of about 12.5 MWe capacity for captive use with a provision for extraction of about 12 TPH steam for use in fabric
