ROUTE MAP

Experience

is close to truth, much more than words and promises. In our business, brands and reputations are built, more than anything else, on the experience of owning and driving a vehicle. Every single bit counts – the experience of purchasing a vehicle, driving it, adorning it, tanking it up, taking along friends and family, carefully ensuring the vehicle's care and upkeep and eventually, one day, letting it go....to celebrate the entry of another vehicle in your life.

We are sensitive to this. Given the nature of our product, every transaction is inevitably the start of a relationship. Our effort is on every single piece of the ownership experience. The design and development of our product considers how the customer will eventually experience it (including, in city traffic!).

Our network is designed to reach as close to customers as possible, and be as flexible as required to serve them in customised, innovative ways, including mobile workshops, small city sales and service formats and last-mile parts outlets. We try that our people, processes and technology converge to offer a high quality experience to customers in purchase, maintenance and resale of the vehicle.

Experience is wonderfully dynamic. There appears to be a built-in mechanism and any experience, once experienced, naturally creates the desire for another, higher experience. We recognise that. Our customers, many millions of individuals, satisfied with the experience of owning our cars, now look for us to offer them a higher experience.

We are at it. Maruti Suzuki 2.0 delights in this opportunity. The design and development of our products, the manner in which we sell and service them, are geared to fulfil our customers' desire for the higher experience.
