MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION & ANALYSIS

Industry Overview:

The Healthcare Industry in India has shown a massive spurt in healthcare spend and is expected to grow at a CAGR of 20% a year and at this rate by 2015, it is estimated to touch a figure of around Rs.50,000/- Crores approximately. Diagnostic Services market is relatively a smaller contributor in the whole Healthcare Industry. However, at present, chains of diagnostic centres are also witnessing significant growth opportunities. Actually, the diagnostic services market has gained momentum in the last 20 years and is significantly dependent on Physician referrals.

The Diagnostic Services sector is mostly attracting the private players and it needs a significant amount of capital from the investors.

In the present market scenario, high level of fragmentation is observed in this sector and the cut throat competition mandates that diagnostic chains offer a value proposition similar to the standalone centres.

As the growth opportunity exists in this sector, several private equity players are getting attracted and trying to play a significant role in various strategies of Indian diagnostic centres including organic and in-organic growth.

However, proper care should be taken to ensure ethical operation and faster growth should not be achieved at the cost of quality.

Company's Performance:

Many more Diagnostic Centres have come into existence during last few years. It is a big challenge to compete with the new entrants. Your company always takes up that challenge because it believes that competition can only make the services perfect.

The turnover during the year 2012-13 was Rs 1255.21 lakhs. The loss after tax was Rs. 24.41 lakhs during the year.

Risk Management:

Taking risk is the challenge. However, your company has gained so much experience in this field over the past so many years and with this gained expertise it is in a position to evaluate and analyse the risks from time to time. Corrective measures are also being taken wherever it is required.

Future Outlook:

Your Company is already having presence in different parts of the Country. With its varied experience in different locations, it can expand further with more and more outfits of various degrees. However, while doing so it will adhere to the 'Quality', which is of prime importance to your company.

S W O T:

1. Pan India presence; Brand image is quite strong.
2. Retention of Human Resources with less attrition rate; a strong relationship.
3. 'Quality' is the key word which is being followed by the company religiously; strong bonding with the patients.
4. New entrants with huge investment posing threats.
