Deepening Technological Capabilities. Opening New Horizons...

Disrupt or get disrupted!

These four words present the shortest summary of what hundreds of businesses around the globe have been through in the last two decades. As disjointed as they could be – healthcare, education, banking, music, retail, media, films – a common thread that ran through has been TECHNOLOGY. Those who rode the technological wave engulfed the unawares. Disrupters won the race, leaving the disrupted ones a very little chance of fighting another day.

In our domain of complex, high end chemistry, many a challenges of tomorrow are staring at technology for viable solutions that are effective, scalable, affordable and also sustainable. Innovators across the globe are getting into technological collaborations across the entire chemical value chain with a common aim of shaping a better world. As an important constituent of this innovation club, at PI Industries, we are accelerating our technological advancement in order to play a much bigger role than what we would have envisaged for ourselves just a few years ago. The technological marathon that we embarked upon 2-3 years ago is helping us deepen our technological capabilities. As the run intensifies, we are starting to apply our steadily deepening expertise into few adjacent domains beyond agrochemicals with encouraging impact.

Fully conscious of our run being a marathon and hence also needing endurance besides obvious traits of skill and focus, we are intensifying our investments in Research & Development. Thanks to consistent strengthening of balance sheet and steady cash flows from operations, we are bolstering our wherewithal to cross the finish line. It's a matter of time that our deepening technological capabilities open newer avenues of sustained growth.
