Treading down a lush green path surrounded by the serenity of nature you will realize how important it is to conserve and help the beauty of our environment flourish. The essence of creating harmony between business and nature lies in the effective use of our resources.

At Ruchi Soya, we have taken this principle to heart and have initiated a palm plantation campaign across the coastal and north-eastern region of the country. That's not all; we have pledged to utilize the renewable sources of energy in the best possible way by generating power from biomass, wind and solar energy.

Message From The MD

“Earth provides enough to satisfy every man’s need, but not for every man’s greed.”
- Mahatma Gandhi

A harmonious co-existence is the need of the day, as the constant barrage of industrialization is wrecking havoc with nature and its eco-system. As we take momentous and imperative steps towards development, it is essential to maintain a balance between ecology and prosperity.

One of the biggest challenges facing eco-friendly businesses today is global warming. The current reports on global warming indicate an unswerving increase in temperature leading to accumulation of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere. To tackle this situation, fossil fuel consumption should be intelligently managed. Only then will we attain the goal of becoming a carbon neutral nation.

This is not an option but a choice that has to be willingly taken, as global warming will adversely affect crop production. Global warming ushers in a windfall of unexpected calamities like flash floods and disturbance in the season cycle that can destroy crop yields. All of these hazards just form the tip of the global warming iceberg.

After understanding the myriad anomalies that seem inevitable if global warming is left untouched, it’s imperative to redefine our definition of development, revisit chosen paths of success and realign means to achieve goals. If delayed, this blatant abuse of nature will have severe repercussions.

At Ruchi Soya, we firmly believe that growth can be achieved without causing irrevocable damage to nature. Our interests coagulate well with the protection of the environment. We believe in giving back to the society – be it contributing to the nation’s growth through taxes paid to the government or the welfare activities undertaken as a responsible corporate citizen or providing direct or indirect employment to more than ten thousand people.

Soybean, Palm and Jatropha plantations are some of the important steps that we have taken towards a greener future. By planting more trees, we are helping restore the green balance. These plantations are key aspects of our backward integration process that will also secure supply of raw materials. As a result of our green initiative, monetary benefits will follow suit.

We are contributing towards energy efficiency through a joint venture with Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. for Jatropha plantation in Uttar Pradesh. Jatropha as an alternate source of fuel may help India save the cost of petroleum import, thus pushing the envelope of green solutions further.

Our new corporate office in Mumbai has been designed keeping in mind all the required equipments and facilities of energy efficiency norms. We celebrate ‘Green Gold Day’ every year by encouraging plantations at all our units across India.

Every stakeholder of Ruchi Soya has played a pivotal role in realizing the Company’s dream of creating a greener tomorrow. We will stand by our promise and ensure that nature not only sustains but flourishes along with our Company. Every goal we envision can be made a reality only with your contribution and confidence. We are en route a journey that will pave way for prosperity and progress for generations to come.

From The Chairman’s Desk

Dear Shareholders,

The year under review began on a challenging note, since the previous year witnessed significant slowdown in the growth rate, following the global financial crisis in the year 2008. Tagged with sub-normal monsoon resulting in the declined agricultural output, the fiscal year 2009-10 was indeed, a difficult period especially for the agri-produce based industries. Sub-standard agricultural produce dipped the margin and crushing across the industry. The soya industry also struggled in the year. Your Company has always consolidated itself on the fundamentals and such practices pay off in the long run. This is evident from your Company’s performance in tough times.

Courtesy the ever-increasing demand for edible oils in the country, your Company was able to mark unmatched performance in the difficult period. Despite exports declined, the Company recorded growth of over 10% in sales and a staggering rise of over 80% in the post tax profit numbers. The Company recorded post tax profit of Rs. 172.47 crores against that of Rs. 93.28 crores in the previous year.

With the biggest movement of RSIL in today’s corporate society – Green Revolution, your Company is consistently following and consolidating itself on the age-old fundamental of conservation of energy with efficient use of resources. The Company’s initiative for ‘Green Environment’ range from increasing stake in renewable energy projects to backward integration of palm plantation.

Company’s commitment to energy conservation and efficiency were well-rewarded by the Government of India, Ministry of Power. This year Mangalore plant of the Company was awarded with National Energy Conservation Award – 2009 (2nd prize in Edible Oil / Vanaspati Industry).

It is a matter of pride for me to mention that your Company bagged awards at Globoil India 2009 conference, for:

- a) Energy Conservation
- b) Outstanding performance for a decade in import of edible oil
- c) Outstanding performance for a decade in export of oil meals

We are continuously driven by providing the best to our customers by “marketing quality and cost effective products.” Living this principle to the fullest has ensured large processing capacities for the Company which are strategically located across the nation. This has given your Company an edge over competiton to deliver quality products through robust distribution network. I am sincerely thankful to the shareholders in the Company for their continued trust bestowed in the management. My sincere and heart-felt thanks goes to all the government departments, banks, financial institutions, institutional investors and retail investors for their continued support. I am pleased to note and appreciate the committed efforts of the motivated work-force of the Company.
