A commitment to sustainable growth.

For more than two decades, this commitment has inspired every innovation, every product launch and every breakthrough we have achieved for human health and wellbeing.

The Financial Year 2011-12, marked the expansion of our crude oil refining capacity by 600,000 MTPA. Now we are consolidating our capacities to attain higher volumes, leverage economies of scale and capture greater market share. We are also strengthening our brand awareness with greater focus on quality and premiumisation to reach out to a wider customer spectrum.

Our consolidation efforts touch all aspects of the value chain. We are constantly increasing sources for our raw material supply and strengthening the reach of our distribution network to serve more people, consistently, every single day.

At Ruchi Soya, we have been on a continuous expansion spree over the past few years to meet the growing demand for edible oil in India. With the completion of our immediate expansion plans, we are now in a position to consolidate these capacities over the next few years.

Strengthening the message of good health and wellbeing

At Ruchi Soya, we have built a strong brand portfolio for the new-age customer: Well-informed and discerning, with an increasing preference for packaged and branded food to stay fit in a fast-paced life.

We are focusing more on branding and product premiumisation to enhance visibility. We launched 25% low absorption Nutrela oil variant during the year. With 25% lighter, less oil per serving it may last 3 times more thus adding value to customers. Also, the introduction of ₹ 10 pack of soya food – helped serve value added products with affordable cost to a large spectrum of masses helped us expanding our customer base.
