FUTURE OUTLOOK

As per NASSCOM, IT services are expected to grow by 4.2 per cent in 2013 as firms work at ways to reduce costs and increase profitability, realizing the inimitable need for information technology to create competitive advantage. For the industry to continue on the growth path and to counter the challenges of emerging alternative outsourcing destinations, it will have to mitigate various challenges it faces at the macro, operational and ecosystem level. There is need for expansion to new markets, further enhancing customer centricity, flexible delivery models, and to continue to make strategic investments.

Increased demand for quality resources is driving the wage bills upwards, which may impact margins and increased attrition rates, and may lead to us not being able to address the customer's needs aggressively. Focus for this year continues to be our concentration on operational excellence with innovative measures, diversification into newer areas providing higher margins and efficient employee engagement programs to keep attrition levels within
