OPERATIONS

Despite a highly competitive environment, the company was able to run its plants at good utilization rates. Good efficiency levels were also maintained. The total production of Polyester Filament Yarn increased from 7892 MT to 8333 MT whereas production of Polyester Chips was maintained at 26660 MT as compared to 26605 MT in the previous year.

During the year under review, high global prices of DMT and MEG put pressure on operating margins. The company's efforts to correct the prices of its products have not fully covered the entire increase in the raw material prices. Due to financial weakness, the company had to restrict own production and do third party job work. Hence the overall volume of business was lower. The sharp increase in the prices of these commodities is driven by a spurt in crude prices and the tight global supply of raw materials created by a rapid growth in China's polyester capacities, which has outpaced the growth of global feedstock capacities.

At present, with the current scale of operations, the value in use, i.e. the estimated future economic benefits expected from the company's cash generating units has significantly eroded and is even lower than the assets' net selling price. Consequently there has been a material impairment of the company's assets in accordance with Accounting Standards AS-28 issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India as the carrying amount of the assets exceed their recoverable amount. For the purpose of quantifying the level of impairment, the company appointed a firm of renowned valuers to determine the net realizable values of the cash generating units.

PROVISIONS OF SICK INDUSTRIAL COMPANIES (SPECIAL PROVISIONS) ACT, 1985

The reference made by the Company U/s.15(1) of the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985 was registered by the Board for Industrial and Financial Reconstruction (BIFR) in March, 2003. The matter is pending with the Board and no hearing has taken place till date.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION & ANALYSIS

Industry Scenario and Outlook

Custom duties on PTA, DMT and MEG have been reduced from 20% to 15% in the current Budget, thereby lowering the landed cost of the above materials. However, decrease in the custom duty rates is expected to only partially offset the rise in the feedstock prices, thus continuing the pressure on the margins.

As the import duties continue to come down, domestic margins also tend to be more in line with international margins. Thus, we believe that the future scenario will be highly competitive. The profitability will be critically contingent on the company's ability to control the costs of other heads, viz., power, labour and others.

The sharp increase in feedstock costs for making polyester - DMT/PTA and MEG which pushed up polyester prices coupled with lower cotton prices, and duty cuts on cotton textiles made cotton yarn cheaper where the major factors which turned unfavourable to the polyester industry in 2004-05, leading to a slow down in the growth rate.

Opportunities, Threats & Challenges

The growth in demand would continue to rely on high consumption in the domestic market. The removal of quota restrictions provides limited opportunities for the man made fibre industry in the short term.

Although the excise duty on polyester filament yarn (PFY) was brought down from 24 per cent to 16 per cent in Union Budget 2005-06, the industry has benefited only partially since the measure was more in the nature of a correction, as PFY attracted the highest excise duty amongst all man-made fibres.

The demand growth has slowed down due to the increase in competition from cotton yarn, as cotton textiles have benefited from complete excise exemption and cotton prices have declined following a bumper cotton crop.

In the long term, the dismantling of quotas would give more discretionary powers to the global buyers in selecting their material sourcing avenues. Buyers in developed countries would be free to buy from the cheapest possible source. This would in turn help the cost-competitive countries like China and India to increase their market share at the cost of other developed and developing nations.
