Growing the Learning Curve

The logo for Report Junction, featuring the word "Report" in grey, a yellow diamond icon with a black dot inside, and the word "Junction.com" in green, all enclosed in a light green rounded rectangle.

At Abhishek, the Learning Curve represents the outcome of its experience, expertise and professional mastery acquired while delivering performance.

Growing the Learning Curve implies that the quality and methodology of execution is getting more effective and efficient to enable it to break benchmarks. This provides it with a significant edge over its peers in terms of value-addition and product development.

We, at Abhishek, have grown our learning curve faster and leveraged our expertise and planning experience to execute best at all times.

Managing director's message

“Our spirit to create a leader out of every member in Abhishek Industries. That is what will get us to US$ 1 billion in revenues by 2010.”

Dear shareholders,

Let me begin by sharing the excitement that is sweeping across Abhishek Industries.

Each member of your Company is energised by the business opportunities and what we can collectively achieve. In view of this vision, we have put in place the building blocks for sustainable growth.

Firstly, it is indeed a pleasure to be in an era when our nation is at the cusp of its biggest economic take-off. This has its own sense of joy and pride - that we have been able to carve a unique place for ourselves among 192 nations in the world.

Just consider. India is today one of the fastest growing economies in the world, second only to China. The country's GDP has grown above 7 per cent for the last three years and reported a growth of 8.4 per cent in 2005-6 with a peak of 9.1 per cent in the last quarter of the year under review.

This is where the optimism comes in: internationally reputed research houses feel that India's growth will sustain and perhaps even accelerate over the next decade. The optimism is derived from a growing number of Indian corporations who are providing considerable value-addition through the delivery of cost-effective but quality products and services to their international partners.

The Indian corporate sector is rising to this global challenge through rapid expansion facilitated by favourable government policies and a low cost of debt. However, there is a flip side to this:

in an era of liberalisation, where state-of-the-art technology and finance are available to most, people will make the critical difference between growth and stagnation. This will be the key to draw the blue print for the future.

Your Company performed creditably in 2005-6, which represents the basis of its optimism.

- We completed the expansion of our terry towel division and modernisation of the yarn and paper divisions.
- We reported attractive improvements in internal efficiency through modernisation, which helped increase profit margins.
- We reported a 67 per cent increase in profit after tax and grew exports from 47 per cent of our net sales to 56 per cent.

Over a period of time, your Company has grown its capacities across its respective businesses, driven by a proactive approach to creating demand rather than merely meeting it. In future too, your Company will invest in modernisation and expansion to capitalise on the growing business opportunities and retain its leadership position.

We are committed to maintaining a long-term relationship with stakeholders - the essence of good governance.

- We maintain transparency in our activities and fairness in our dealings.

- Every corporate decision is taken after considering the impact on stakeholder interests.

Here, I would like to quote His Holiness the Dalai Lama - "We have a responsibility to look after our planet. It is our only home."

As a responsible corporate citizen, it has always been our endeavour to enhance the quality of life and other social conditions in a sustainable manner for the communities in the vicinity of our manufacturing locations.

At Abhishek Industries, we believe firmly that every individual wants to learn and grow during his/her employment. In view of this, we have initiated a company-wide 'change management' initiative to leverage the potential talent and skill sets of our intellectual capital by growing their learning curve and addressing issues like ownership, participation and recognition, the three critical elements that drive individual sustainability.

I am optimistic that we can create a leader out of every member in Abhishek Industries, and in doing so, achieving US$ 1 billion in revenues by 2010.

Warm regards,

Rajinder Gupta

A McKinsey quarterly survey showed that as many as 81 per cent of top Indian executives feel that the cost and availability of talent will represent a significant business constraint over the next five years.
