Uniply and the world

Uniply Industries Limited was started in 1996 with the prime objective of providing plywood and other panel products, benchmarked to international standards. Its uncompromising quality and build up of an extensive range over the years has catapulted the brand to new heights, and enabled it to earn customers' trust.

Uniply's now strengthened by a decade of trust, goodwill and credibility. There has always been a constant thrust to move, create and keep growing. Uniply never stands still, for the secret to go places is to keep moving. Thanks to this spirit and the strict adherence to world class standards and state-of-art manufacturing procedures. Uniply is now the choice of expert architects and designers worldwide.

Ancient Origins of Plywood

Archeologists have found traces of laminated wood in the tombs of the Egyptian pharaohs. A thousand years ago, the Chinese shaved wood and glued it together for use in furniture.

The English and French are reported to have worked wood on the general principle of plywood in the 17th and 18th centuries.

And historians credit Czarist Russia for having made forms of plywood prior to the 20th century as well.

Early modern-era plywood was typically made from decorative hardwoods and most commonly used in the manufacture of household items, such as cabinets, chests, desk tops and doors. Construction plywood made from softwood species did not appear on the scene until the 20th century.

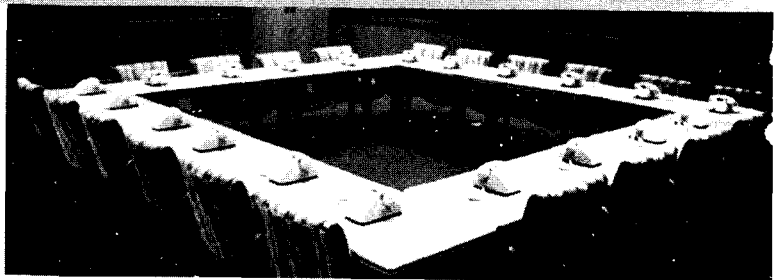

Our philosophy

The customer is the most important part of our business. By providing him quality at any cost, we are building a great brand based on a great relationship.

Our mission

To delight the customer by delivering the highest international standards for his use.

Certifications

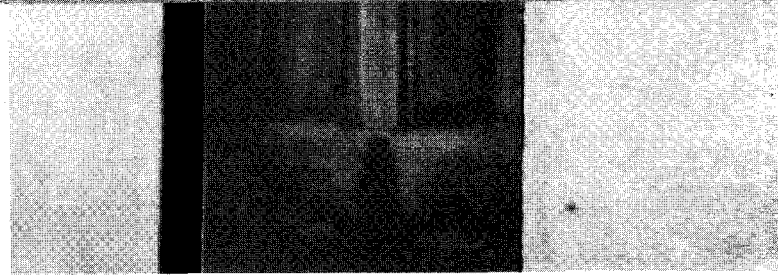

The numerous international certifications and accreditations, won by Uniply assures customer quality they can buy. With their eyes closed. Its products are ISO 9001-2000 certified from DNV UKAS Quality Management. And further bear ISI mark for assured value.

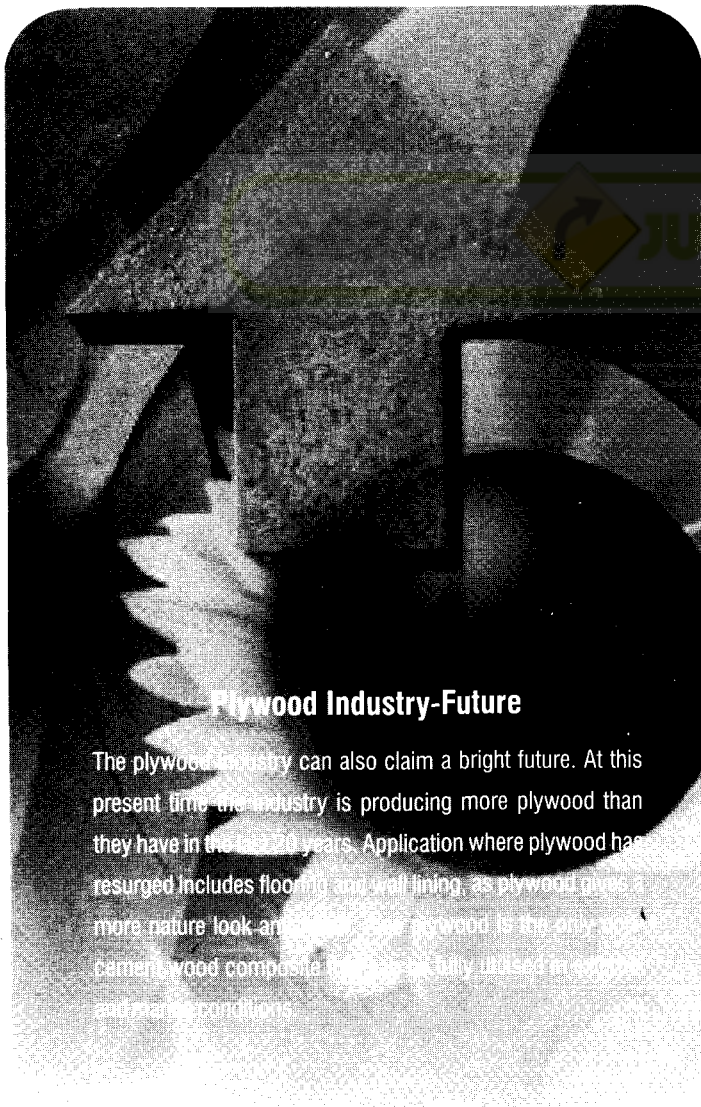

Plywood is often called the original engineered wood product because it was one of the first to be made by bonding together cut or refashioned pieces of wood to form a larger and integral composite unit stronger and stiffer than the sum of its parts. Cross-laminating layers of wood veneer actually improve upon the inherent structural advantages of wood by distributing along-the-grain strength of wood in both directions. This idea of "reconstituting" wood fiber to produce better-than-wood building materials has led in more recent times to a technological revolution and the rise of a whole new engineered wood products industry.

Future endeavours

Uniply's striving to set new standards in quality. Reach new peaks. And explore new possibilities. It's looking for new avenues of opportunities where it can forge an enduring relationship with architects, designers, builders and interior designers to redefine the future.

Plywood Industry-Future

The plywood industry can also claim a bright future. At this present time the industry is producing more plywood than they have in the last 20 years. Application where plywood has resurged includes flooring and wall lining, as plywood gives a more nature look and feel. Plywood is the only wood cement composite that is fully utilised in wet and marine conditions.

Building through value

At Uniply, we don't stop with delivering quality plywood. We strive to ensure we meet our customer needs in every area related to the industry. And offer our customers various value added features that not only surpasses their expectation. But also strengthens the company's reputation.

Features that delight customers:

- Every plywood of Uniply has a unique preservative treatment that makes it completely resistant to termite and insect attacks.

- Almost all Uniply plywoods are born tough and sturdy. They do not warp or lose shape over a period of time.
- Unlike most of the plywoods available in the market, Uniply plywoods are made of handpicked high-grade tropical hardwood which makes it extremely strong and durable.
- Uniply's stringent process include: cooking of logs, glue line protection, hi-tech pre-press process, auto hot press for uniform strength, chemical treatment.
